A Message . . . from the President

Our age is one of rapid change and intellectual and spiritual confusion. In such an age, where shall we turn for leaders? Where have we turned in the past? A booklet published by the educational department of Who's Who in America has answered this for us with the statement that small colleges have furnished our nations with leaders out of all proportion to their enrollment.

Today the demand for the product of Christian colleges—educated men and women of character—has never been greater. Centenary seeks to strengthen itself both spiritually and materially to meet the demands of this new day. For with James Weber Linn, of the University of Chicago, we believe that "—the sun of promise never shines more brightly than through the windows of the small college," and with Who's Who we believe that "unless these institutions continue to receive the financial support that has been given them in the past, we fail to nourish for American life one of its greatest spiritual assets."

Choir

Choir Officers—J. H. Blackmon, President; Stanley Wozencraft, Business Manager; Dannie Duerson, Vice-President; O. Vance Mason, Publicity Director; and Betty Rae Fox, Secretary.

The Centenary College Choir has become widely known this year through its numerous concerts given over the state and its weekly radio program. The Choir consists of forty-nine students representing ten states with ten veterans, eleven preparing to enter full time religious work, and eight music majors among them. The big event of the year is the trip to San Francisco in July, which is sponsored by the Lions Club.

First Row—Rita Roadebush, Betty Lou Porter, Judy Key, Marilyn Miller.

Second Row—Mary Ann Hettler, Dannie Duerson, Attie Sue Plummer, Jeanne Connelly.

"Thank me not for what I sing thee Thine are the songs, no gift of mine."

Never to be forgotten days were those spent at "Beenaire" camp on Lake Bistineau. Six days of fishing, eating, swimming, singing, and more singing was CHOIR CAMP.

They traveled 3500 miles on their concert tours, participating in many Greater Centenary Programs, such as the three-day trip to New Orleans.

From Cheesy Voran, the beloved and competent director, comes much of the inspiration and spirit which distinguishes the Choir from any other organization on the campus.

Jane Riggs presents flowers to Band Sweetheart, Dorothy Long.

STILL playing a major part in the spirit of Centenary, the Band, under the able direction of Bill Causey, has again distinguished itself. With the beating of drum and crashing of cymbal, the Band has stepped into the spotlight at basketball games, parades, radio broadcasts, chapel programs, and concerts.

It is with that typical Centenary energy that the members of this organization have held daily rehearsals in a successful effort to maintain the excellent standing which the Band now has.

Orchestra

UNDER the able direction of Lester A. Somers, the Centenary-Shreveport Orchestra has done much to promote interest in orchestral music in Shreveport. This forty-five piece orchestra is composed of Centenary students and other interested musicians in our community. Two concerts in the Centenary gymnasium and several programs in neighboring towns have contributed greatly to the furtherance of the Greater Centenary Program. The faculty and student body appreciate the work done by this organization in forming once again, after an absence of many years, a symphony orchestra in Shreveport.

STUDENT Government has made progress on the Centenary campus. A complete revision was made of the Senate constitution and the methods of representation in the group. They installed the point system in the college, sponsored Religious Emphasis Week, and made plans for a pep squad for next year. With a smaller Student Senate the thirteen members have advanced far toward a more complete understanding of the administration and its policies. The Senate members have dedicated their thoughts and energies toward making Student Government a stronger link between faculty and students, strengthened by mutual understanding and cooperative assistance. The faculty members of the Student Senate are: Dr. Mary Warters, Bobby Moody, Dr. George Sixbey, and Mrs. Tom McClellan.

BESIDES trapping fifteen Who's Whoers in Chapel, the Centenary Conglomerate has accomplished many of its goals of the fall. Among them are the aiding in establishing of new fraternities and sororities on the campus (two have been formed); the promotion of more and better Student Government; the publicizing of the need for a football team (with good results). Also this year the paper, edited for the second year by Marilyn Miller, has stepped from a five-column to a six-column paper and has made plans for changing from a biweekly to a weekly publication in the fall of 1947.

Mr. J. D. Theus
Co-Editor, "Yoncopin" CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA
Shreveport, Louisiana

Dear Mr. Theus:

It has been a great pleasure to judge the beauty contest for your yearbook, "Yoncopin." The photographs of the candidates, which you submitted, were all so attractive that I found it difficult to make a decision. It was also difficult to make my selection without seeing and talking to each contestant.

The winners were selected on the basis of personality, character, and intelligence, as well as for natural beauty. My choice was influenced, of course, by my great interest in and admiration for the Natural Girl.

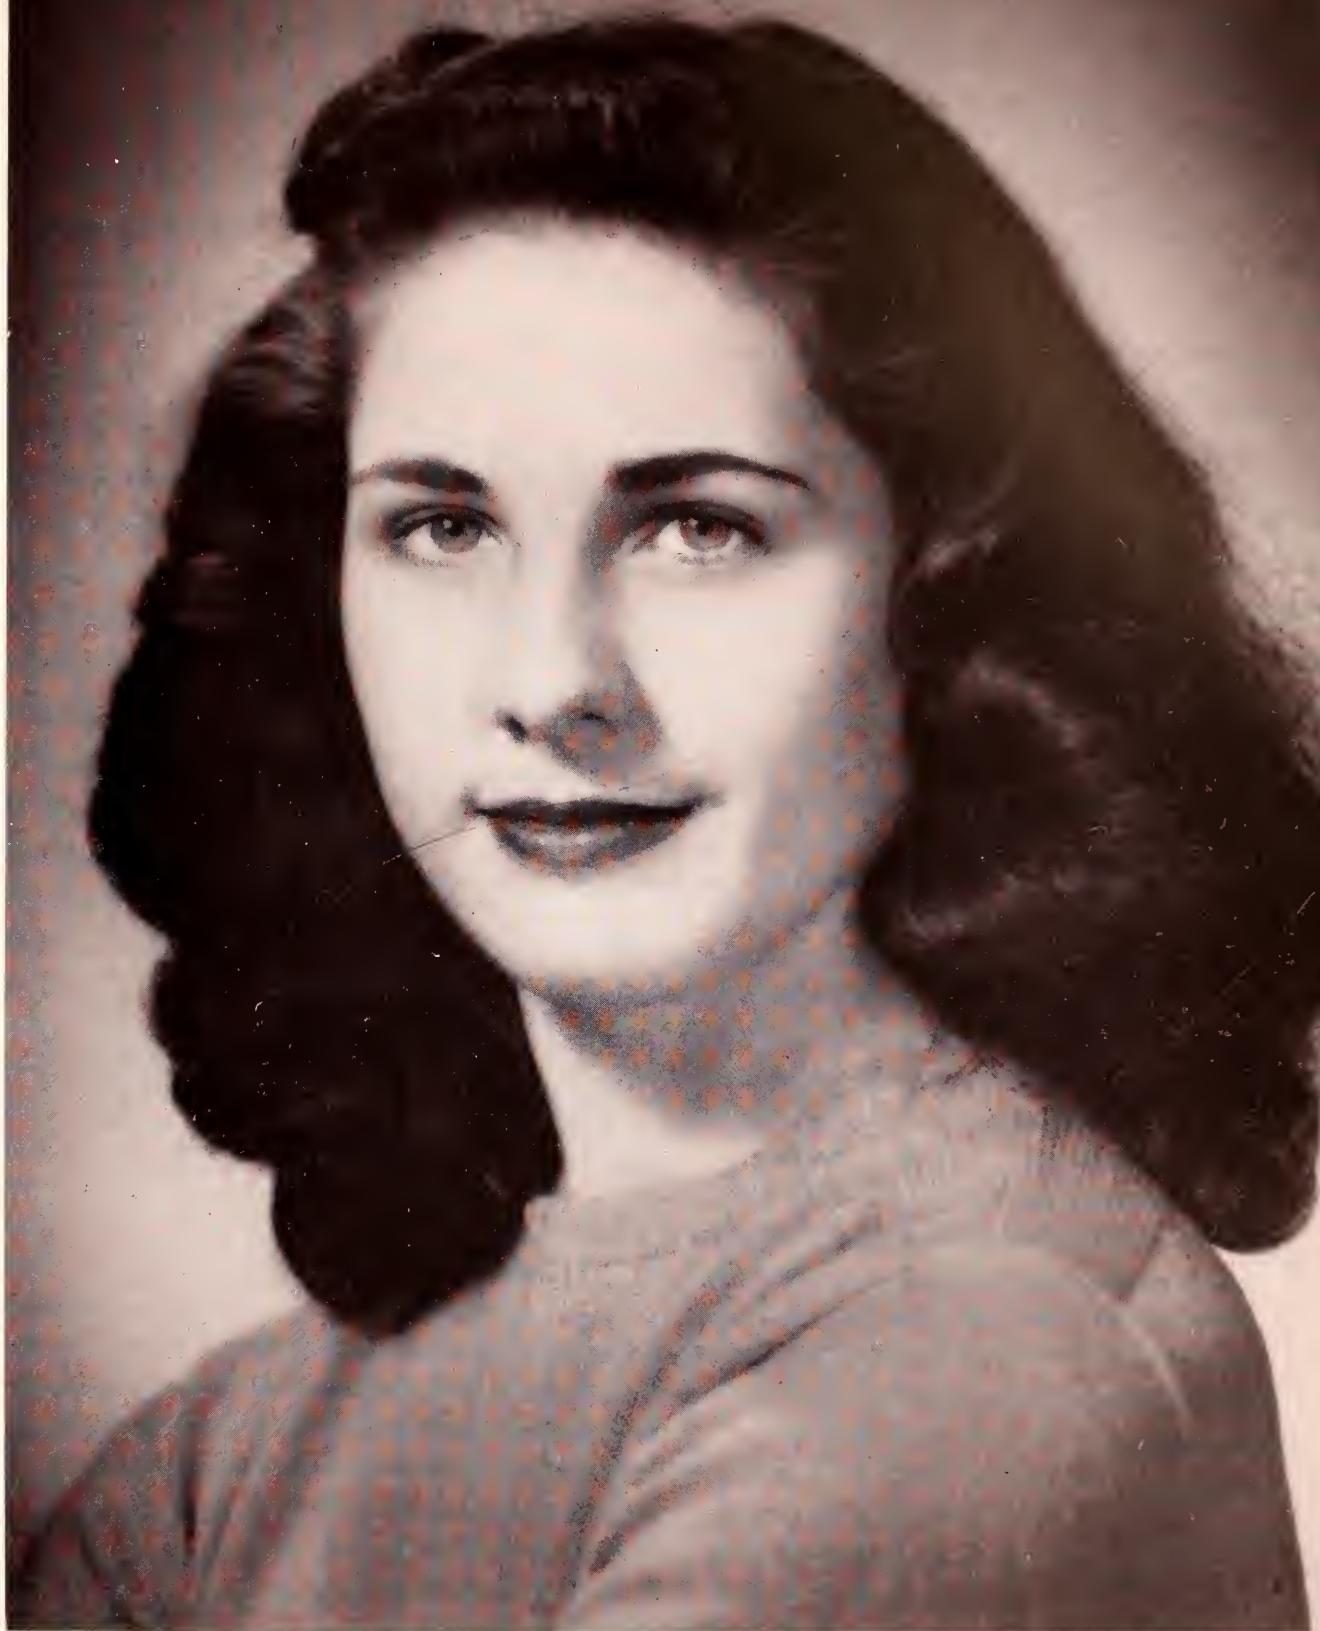

If the contestants are ever in New York, it would be a pleasure to meet them. With best wishes to the contestants, to the staff of "Yoncopin" and to the students of CENTENARY COLLEGE OF LOUISIANA, I am

Sincerely yours,

Rudolph Ganz was brought to Shreveport and to Centenary College for a concert and master class by Mrs. Helen Ruffin Marshall, instructor in voice.

UNDER the chairmanship of Ralph Squires, head of the music school, a Lyceum course was offered at Centenary for the first time this year, with remarkable success. Eight programs were offered in the course, four of them lectures and four concerts.

Y C E U M

Highspot of the Lyceum series was a concert by the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra, pictured above. The other musical programs were presented by Robert Merrill, upper right; Jesus Maria Sanroma; and the Footlight Favorites Quartet. The lecturers included Dr. Harry Van Walt, internationalist; Dr. Burgess Johnson, noted author and teacher; Harold Eide, Alaskan explorer; and Toru Matsumoto, Japanese lecturer.

BAGLES

HAVE you recently stepped on a loose brick and had cold, muddy water squirted up your trousers leg? It was a bagle, living under the brick, that did it. Bagles live almost anywhere, but their favorite habitats seem to be under bricks.

During the war, the bagles banded together and decided that they needed a name that was more glamorous. Since they'd agreed upon unleashing their deviltry on the Air Forces, they chose the title of Gremlin. Now that their military careers have been ended, they've returned to college campuses all over the country to resume their rightful name of bagles.

They have many standard activities other than squirting muddy water on students who happen to pass near their homes. They move decimal points and commas; they make fountain pens leak; and they are largely responsible whenever a prof becomes completely unbearable. One social group, the Kappa Bagles, meet in the Urban physics lab every Thursday afternoon, where all the pledges go around smashing equipment and stealing fifty gram weights.

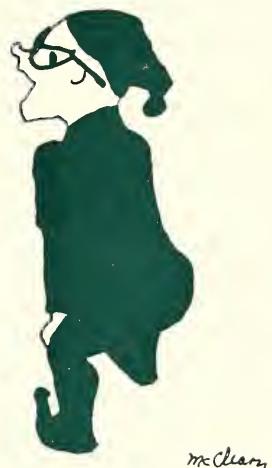

Bagles, in reality, do like music. A study of bagleology reveals that much of their modern and classical music is similar to that which is enjoyed by mortals. Among the popular selections are: "I See Bagles When I Look at You," "The Boogie-Woogie Bagle Boy of Company B" (B for Bagle), and "You Broke the Only Bagle That Ever Loved You." The classics include "The Fifth Symphony," by Ludwig von Bagletoven and "My Hero" from The Chocolate Bagle.

When not disrupting activities on this campus, many of the bagles attend a school of their own. In a recent contest, the ten most bagleful girls on their campus were chosen. Among those named for this honor were: Bagle Fletcher, Bagle Lou Porter, and Betty Jo Baglehner. President Joe J. Bagle is on the committee to make the final selection for "Miss Baglery! 1947."

In spite of their general detrimental efforts, some of the bagles have contributed a great deal to science. One of the newer plastics has been called bagle-ite.

CENTENARY, once again in major basketball circles, has given local and student fans something to yell for this year. Their record stands at sixteen wins and six losses, the wins being over some of the best teams in the area.

In the contest to determine the best team in the state Centenary came out second, losing to Northwestern State College on a technical point. This knocked them out of going to the national contest in Kansas City.

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL

COACH MASON DUNN

THE Centenary Jayvees enjoyed a successful season by winning seventeen games and losing only eleven. They entered one tournament and advanced to the quarter-finals. There they were beaten by the Elizabeth quintet by a margin of six points. Clark, a forward on the team, was placed on the third team of the All Tri-State team combinations.

Mason Dunn, at Centenary after two years instructing athletics in the Navy, has become well known in local sports circles as the coach of a speedy Junior Varsity team. He has a state-wide reputation of being well-liked and officiates in all sporting activities.

*First Row—Henry Timms, Bill Morgan, Nathan Joyner.

Below: Mr. C. H. Rollins, athletic business manager, assumed his duties at Centenary on January 1, 1947, as administrative assistant to President Joe J. Mickle, and since then has become one of the familiar faces on the campus. His duties at present are the sale of advance tickets for the season football games, and seeing that things come off as they should for the football team and things in general.

NEW COACHES

Above: Dr. Mickle presents new coaches Jess Thompson and Paul Cochran to Centenary fans. Jess Thompson comes to us from Cameron State Junior College, in Lawton, Oklahoma. While there he piled up a record in four seasons that will be hard to beat. During the war years he and his assistant were Naval officers. We are expecting high things from the coaches of the new team, and expect the students to help by doing their part to back them up.

Paul Cochran, genial assistant coach, who comes to us from Cameron State also, can be found in his office in the gym most any time talking to the prospective players for the new team. He has worked with Coach Thompson and knows what he can do to make our team have as good a record as the teams they have handled before.

INTRAMURAL...

This year the girls' intramural program, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Robarge and Mrs. Bryant Davidson, spent many hours working on basketball, volleyball, tumbling, and the various other sports and exercises required of them. The grouping of the activities was arranged by classes (freshmen, sophomore, junior, senior), and in this manner teams for the various sports were selected. The teams competed on a special night designated as play night under the supervision of the Council. The Council has met with gratifying success in intra-mural and recreational activities.

SPORTS...

The boys' intramural program was well organized this year and met with much success. The Council, under the direction of Coach Cornish, has maintained interest in athletics of all types, and has put on a fine display of the sports this year, with many teams competing in basketball, football, and others.

Football

Coaches Thompson and Cochran began spring football practice early this year, running the groups of boys in shifts. From each group will be selected those for the team to represent Centenary on the field next year. The climax of the spring practice is an inter-squad game which gives everyone a good idea of what to expect next year.

In the spring the interest shown in inter-fraternity football is an indication of what the spirit will be when the college team takes the field. The fraternities competed in a round-robin tournament to decide who would play off for the school championship. The finalists in this game were the Kappa Sigmas and the Kappa Alphas. The final score of this game was 7-6 with the Kappa Sigmas on the long end. During the half Miss Bettye Fletcher was crowned Football Queen.

Undaunted by a first match defeat at the hands of East Texas State Teachers College, the Gentlemen Golfers are looking forward optimistically to a successful first season of intercollegiate golf. Beaten 15 to 6 in point score in their first engagement the Gents are itching for a return engagement with E.T.S.T.C. scheduled in Shreveport, April 16. Matches are also scheduled with Northwestern, Tech, Springhill College of Mobile, Alabama, and possibilities of matches with Barksdale, Texas A. and M., S. M. U., and S. L. I.

They were ably led in the first match by Hutch Phillips, in the number one slot, who garnered three of the Gents' six points. Drew Liddell, playing number three, picked up a point and a half; Ben Helm made half a point in the fourth position; Stanley Dickerson in the fifth spot made one point; and Slick Comegys, playing in number two spot, had a contested 92 or 91, you take your choice. Jimmie Stayton, the debonair Broadmoor linksman, was unable to make the first trip to Sulphur Springs. That takes care of all the personnel, except the schedule arranger, Coach Clayton, and the faculty sponsor, Iowa and Tennessee Mantle. Their constant encouragement, along with the business manager of the athletic department, helped the team get started.

Sweet, oh Sweet — Knock in that birdie!

DIAMOND STARS...

Baseball practice began at Centenary this year with over 50 boys trying out for the team. Coach Jack Clayton plans on a traveling team of 18 members selected from the boys out. He has scheduled over 24 games for this season. The team will take the diamond for the first game on Saturday, March 28, with Northwestern State College and will play teams from colleges in the Tri-State area.

Established in 1932, Alpha Sigma Pi is the honorary fraternity for freshmen and sophomores who make a 2.5 grade-point ratio. It is under the guiding hand of Mrs. A. R. Campbell. One of the worst of the pledge rules has been adopted in the past year. All pledges must wear a dunce cap at least two feet high for the entire pledge period. The object of this organization is to stimulate and recognize scholarship, leadership, and character early in the college career.

The key of Cen-Coe forms a triangle, symbolizing the equality of the three Greek groups. Founded in 1937, its purpose is to promote a friendly and cooperative spirit among the sororities on the campus. Membership is composed of ten selected girls from each sorority. A trophy is awarded at the end of each school year to the most outstanding Cen-Coe, based on the girl's loyalty to Centenary, Cen-Coe, and her sorority. This winter Cen-Coe sponsored an essay contest, dealing with the Greater Centenary Program.

Established in 1928, Pi Mu Sigma is one of the oldest organizations on the campus. It is the honorary fraternity for pre-medical students and is sponsored by Dr. Mary Warters. To be eligible for membership a student must have a sincere interest in some field of medicine, a high scholastic average, and the unanimous approval of all the members. As one of their projects, the members contribute annually a book on some medical subject to the library. The year's program, including several papers by local doctors, is completed by a banquet in which fun is the predominating motive.

Under the capable guidance of Professor R. E. White, the Spanish Club has had the largest enrollment in its history this year. Mr. N. P. Butler, Jr., a new member of the Spanish faculty, has given several informative talks on his travels in Mexico. Late in January the club entertained the visiting basketball team from the University of Mexico. The following month found this group enjoying its annual banquet at the new El Patio Cafe.

The Camera Club was formed by six students early in 1947. By the end of the semester, five more had joined the ranks. The goal of the club, a course in photography at Centenary, is pushed along by Dave Moffat, president, and Faculty Sponsor Goodloe Stuck.

Outstanding pictures taken by members are displayed in the Science Library through the courtesy of Librarian Mrs. Alben. A dark room in Jackson Hall, mutual teaching and learning helps prepare members for photography either as a hobby or career.

From a small and almost unnoticed beginning, the Dramatic Club of the speech department of Centenary grew into the Centenary Playhouse, a club formed for the purpose of producing plays with student actors, actresses, and technicians. Organized in October, 1946, the club began a series of one-act plays, given for members only. After these initial plays the experience gained by the students was put to use in later productions. The first major play, a three-act comedy, Laff That Off, was presented in April, followed by Birthright. Since a suitable stage for the productions was lacking, the Centenary Playhouse made good use of the old chapel building. In spite of a too-small stage, no drop curtain or proper lighting equipment, the club members went ahead with great spirit to present these plays.

Joseph Gifford, director of the speech and drama department, guided the members in the work of the club and directed one major production. Assistant to Mr. Gifford, Miss Eva Spence directed some of the plays and taught drama production and public speaking.

The P. E. M. Club was organized this year by a few enthusiastic physical education majors, and now the club boasts about thirty members. The purpose of this club is to create and stimulate a closer feeling among this group, to develop a professional attitude, to cooperate in the work of state and national organizations, and to further recreational and social life among its members.

The P. E. M. Club meets twice a month with one business meeting and one social meeting. This year the club adopted two main projects—one, the selling of small basketball emblems which are now being worn by basketball enthusiasts, and, second, starting a student-faculty directory. In the business meetings the three sponsors gave talks on the vital sides of physical education and its professional side. These sponsors are Mrs. Bryant Davidson, Miss Dorothy Robarge, and Coach Clayton Comish.

CITY NIGHT

A cold night
and the pavement is gray cold.
Chilled water cascades in miniature flows from aged fountains.
Warm neon names and words glow on store and nightclub fronts.
Nightwind dips into city streets, scattering newspapers candy wrappers empty cigaret packs, lifting unwary hats,
stifling flying sparks of cigarettes, making lips cold and dry that cannot live again without those of the lover to warm them, defining the body-mold
beneath a woman's dress, bringing white-cold vapor
from the nostrils, mouth.
This is the winter song of the nightwind untamed by the city.

Open the door to a cabaret and a burst of sound breaks the night-silence.
The air is giddy
with beer odor and cigaret smoke.
Hot jazz notes tumble through the air rise and fall from a long sleek clarinet from eighty-eight black and white keys rippling and bellowing under the hands of a darkskinned man with bulbous eyes, venous forehead; hands that seduce a piano hands that induce it to breathe music hot and African;
a tenor saxophone with a soul mellow, silver-toned, naked;
a trumpet with its rich flambuoyancy blue plaintive call;
a bass fiddle, deep and southern;
the staccato heartbeat of drums descendants of tomtoms.
This is Psyche of the cabaret this group of jazzmen
this Congo combo.
This is the soul of music moderne free, unrepressed, unorthodox, but born and bred in New Orleans and Chicago fired with life in the USA one of the pulsating arteries of American art devoid of restraint, breathing emotion.

This is the story of one city night composite of all city nights;
the story of dancing couples closely woven in sensuous embrace synchronized with music tempo;
of men and women drinking, perspiring, shouting laughing, crying maudlin tears; leaving Virtue and Practicability outside in parked cars never inviting them in knowing they would be ashamed of what they saw.

Laughter ripples, rolls and thunders in the cabaret
but a sadness clings to the dirty white walls and scarred dancefloor and beneath the mask of human flesh and bone there is a sadness.

along the pigpen roads bordered with ditches filled with dead and dying men along the dark-singed meadows nauseous with burning man and goat flesh odors in the gutted villages with bodies lying stiff beneath crushed roofs stiff and soulless and around the hills of a serf-nation.
I paraphrase Sherman and say
"War is hills."
War is the fighting for hills.
War is the taking of hills.
War is numbered hills nameless except for numbers and endless bald, snowcovered, clad in verdant fire rolling, ragged, rugged bomb-blasted and gunpowder-black sour with gunsmoke pockmarked by mortar shells and heavy with the enemy.

I sing an uncontrolled

BATTLE OF MANSFIELD . . .

(From a 3,000 word feature story as it appeared in the Shreveport TIMES, April 6, 1947).

The story of that eventful April 8, 1864, the day of the Battle of Mansfield, is the real Civil War story of our section. The main facts are familiar, but there are many interesting sidelights not widely or generally known.

In the spring of 1864, the Northern Army determined to crush all opposition west of the Mississippi River, and General Kirby-Smith, who had control of the military operations of the entire Trans-Mississippi Confederacy, with headquarters at Shreveport, found himself threatened from two nearly opposite directions. General Frederick Steele was approaching from the north with an army of 15,000 men and two long supply trains. At the same time, Maj. Gen. N. P. Banks with a splendid army of 32,000 well-disciplined troops was rapidly approaching by the way of the Red River, having with him a fleet of fifty steamers, twenty-two of which were armored gunboats and mounting in all 300 guns. Admiral David C. Porter, of naval fame, commanded the fleet. The object of these expeditions was two-fold. First, to prevent the western armies from rendering aid to their brothers east of the Great River struggling with Sherman, and—second, to destroy, if possible, the western Confederate armies. They accomplished the first of these objects, but failed utterly in the second.

All opposition had given way to Banks up to April fifth, and he had marched steadily forward. He started his march toward Shreveport, and General Smith was of the opinion that Banks should arrive in the vicinity of Shreveport before risking a battle. However, his field marshal, General Dick Taylor, was of the opposite opinion, and thought it best to give battle at once. His determination in this matter almost caused mutiny, and he even threatened to march his army away into Texas if he could not give battle at this juncture.

When Taylor arrived in Mansfield, April 7, word came from Pleasant Hill that the enemy was approaching in great force. General Greene, who had charge of the cavalry, was then engaged in battle with a very superior company of horsemen. Reinforcements were sent Taylor and knowing that the battle was a matter of a few hours away, Taylor selected the site for the battle. He took a position across the road at Sabine Cross Roads, about four miles south of Mansfield. This position was important. It was an open field 800 yards wide and 1200 yards deep. There were two parallel roads . . . one on each side of the main road and two miles away. Walker's Texas Division was on the left, and Churchill's Missouri Division was moving down from Shreveport to join Taylor at Mansfield. Taylor was to be supported by such distinguished men as Mouton, Polignac, Walker, and Greene.

On the morning of the eighth, all troops were placed and ready for battle. An advance guard came riding up and said the enemy was upon them. The loss was great . . . and Taylor's horse was shot from under him. As the day wore on, Taylor saw that the Federals were not going to make an advance; so he ordered a forward of his entire line. The troops' enthusiasm could hardly be restrained, and they charged across the open field under heavy fire . . . and made a headlong rush upon the Federal line. Needless to say, the fighting as well as the losses were severe. General Mouton was killed and at his death,

Murder of East Texas Man Shocks Nation

Even Dickens Wrote of Crime, 105 Years Ago

By ROY GIBBONS

One of Charles Dickens' most vivid impressions of America, gained in his first visit in 1842, was the account of an East Texas killing as reported in the Caddo Gazette, second newspaper founded in Shreveport. The slaying occurred March 2, 1842.

Dickens did not visit Shreveport, but saw a reprint of the Shreveport paper's story in another newspaper. The slaying, that of Col. Robert Potter, and others of a similar type were told in Dickens' "American Notes," essays written on his visit to the United States.

The story tells of the death of Colonel Potter, shot in Caddo lake and her two small children for while trying to escape from his chief months at a time. Colonel Potter met political enemy, William Rose, and Mrs. Page when he rescued her and others of the "Regulators," a political group active during the last years of the Republic of Texas.

The story, as contained in Dickens' book, is:

"From the 'Caddo Gazette,' of the 12th inst. (March 12, 1842) we learn the frightful death of Colonel Robert Potter. . . . He was beset in his house by an enemy, named Rose. He sprang from his couch, seized his gun, and, in his night clothes, rushed from the house. For about 300 yards his speed seemed to defy his pursuers; but, getting entangled in a thicket, he was captured. Rose told him that he intended to act a generous part, and give him a chance for his life. He then told Potter he might run, and he should not be interrupted till he reached a certain distance. Potter started at the word of command and before a gun was fired he had reached the lake. His first impulse was to jump in the water and dive for it, which he did. Rose was close behind him, and formed his men on the bank ready to shoot him as he rose. In a few seconds he came up to breathe; and scarce had his head reached the surface of the water when it was completely riddled with the shot of their guns, and he sank, to rise no more!"

Sensation of Its Day

If it seems strange that a visiting Englishman should quote a story from a small town newspaper, the story of a murder that took place just about 35 miles from Shreveport, remember that this was one of the most sensational shootings of the day. On March 2, 1842, just 105 years ago, this section was shocked by the murder of one of the most colorful characters in the history of his region, Col. Robert Potter, ex-congressman from North Carolina, ex-secretary of the navy of the Republic of Texas, and leader of the Moderator group in the Moderator-regulator warfare then taking place in the Texas Badlands.

Colonel Potter came to Nacogdoches in 1835 after a scandal in Washington. While congressman from North Carolina, he became involved in an affair with a young heiress in Washington; according to his story he became engaged to her, though he was still married to a wife in North Carolina. He tried to get rid of his wife by accusing her of an affair with a young minister, but his plan

So He Proposed

He started out on the journey with her, and before they reached Alexandria he proposed to her. The overland trip from Alexandria to Kentucky was dangerous, and Colonel Potter persuaded Mrs. Page that if she would come to Shreveport he could get a safer passage for her. No passage was waiting in Shreveport, so the colonel had other plans. He persuaded Mrs. Page that her first marriage had not been legal in Texas, and that she was free to marry him.

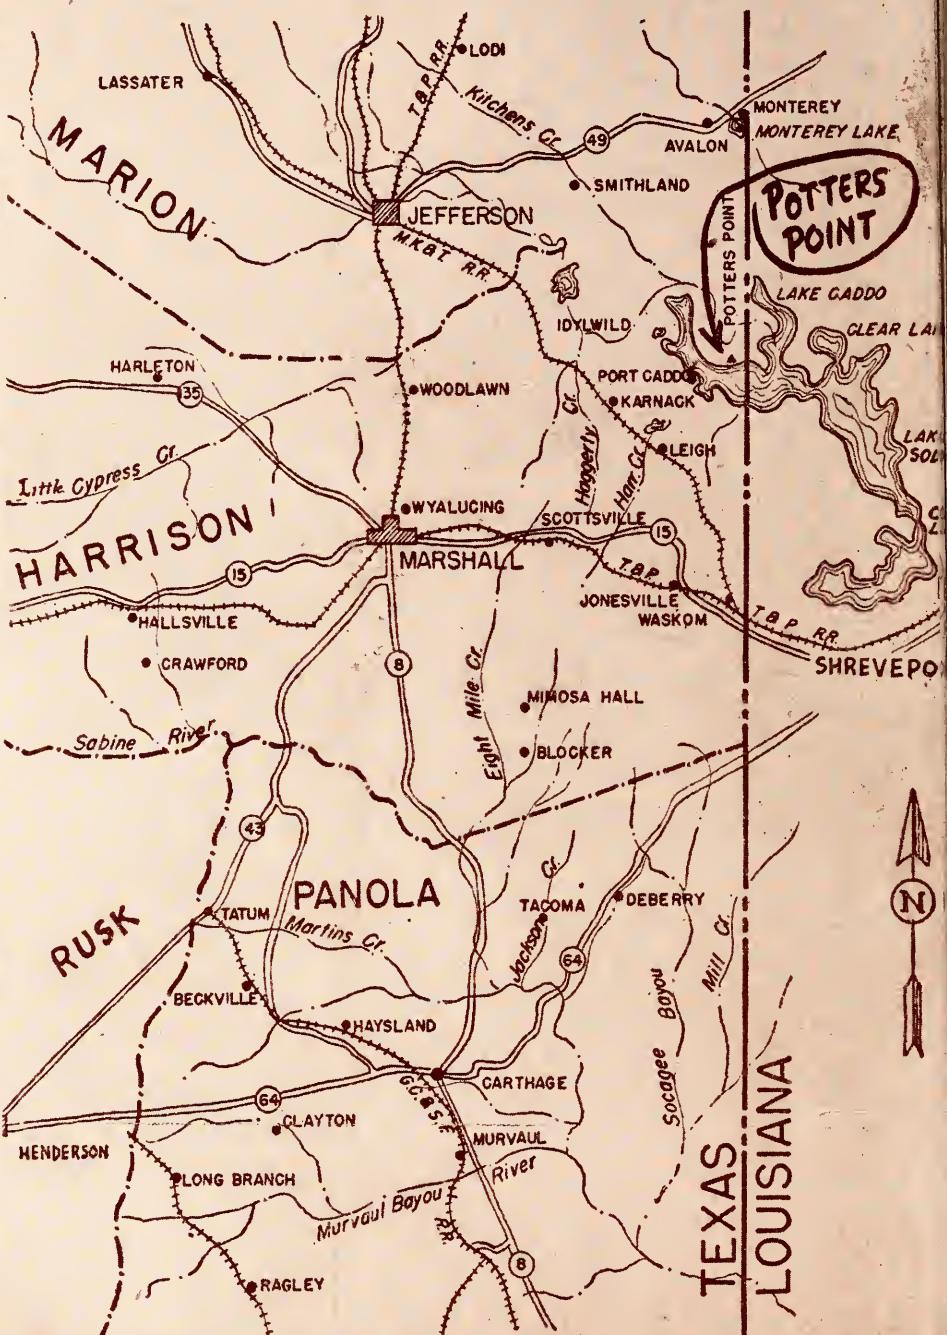

The legality of the Potter marriage was questioned several times. In Mrs. Potter's personal manuscript, written at the age of 83, she said, "one day he (Potter) came to the house and said that he had some important questions to ask me if I would answer them, and when I assented he inquired whether my marriage with Page had been solemnized by a priest. I explained how the ceremony had been performed. We were not married by a priest. 'Very well,' he answered, 'your marriage with Page was not legal, because in Texas a marriage not solemnized by a priest is not valid. Therefore, you are just as free, according to the laws of Texas, as if you had never married.'

"Yes," I told him, "I have heard my father say that people had to be married over again by the priest before they could get land." 'Don't you see,' he said, 'that you are just as free to marry again as any one else?'

"I listened to all he said and promised to think the matter over. He loved me very devotedly, and the more I thought about it the better way it seemed out of my difficulties.

"So, one evening, according to the

Where Ex-Secretary of Texas Navy Was Killed

Potter's Point, scene of one of the most sensational slayings in East Texas history, is shown in the map made by John Karam Thomas. Potter's Point was about 35 miles northwest of Shreveport at the time of Colonel Potter's shooting by William Rose in 1842. The map also shows Wyalucing, one-time home of Holcomb Pickens, whose picture appeared on some bills issued by the Confederate states. It is now the music building of Bishop college for negroes at Marshall, Texas.

get more men, to arm them all and to be ready for an attack, but Potter laughed at her fears. This was to be a peaceable arrest; after the arrest President Houston would take effective steps. All they had to do was to present the warrant and take the prisoners without bloodshed.

When Potter and his men approached Rose's home they found Rose busily engaged in supervising a group of men who were clearing off a new p-surrounded, and that we will have to fight or die. 'Where are all the men?' he inquired. 'I suppose the men are all killed!' Then he wanted to escape from the house, but I begged him not to go...

Dives Into Lake

"He looked through a small crack in the wall at the back of the house and seeing the number of the attacking party he said that the only thing to do was to dive into the lake.

Once-Deadly Mines Now Hold Christmas Trees

Clever Shreveport Man Finds Good Use for Surplus Weapon

By JOE H. POWELL

Talk about beating swords into plowshares!

How would the simple fashioning of army land mines into Christmas tree stands do for a parallel?

This is what an ingenious Shreveporter has accomplished and his new lifetime stands for Christmas trees are on the market this year for the first time.

The stand was conceived by David R. Trowbridge, 2422 Coral street, marine veteran who is employed by Marobee Playground Equipment Company, 1256 Dalzell, one of the largest companies of this kind in the South. In May of this year the Marobee company purchased approximately 75,000 empty anti-tank mines that were surplus from a sheet metal company which had a contract with the government for the mines.

Welds Pipe on Top

In June the company had a warehouse full of empty mines and no way to use them. Mr. Trowbridge, a welder foreman before the war, thought the situation over. He remembered past Christmases — a tree for the children but always the same trouble of keeping it erect. With this in mind he decided the mines would make stands that would be practical, easy to use, and permanent.

He found that by welding a piece of pipe on top and fixing a setscrew in the pipe, the stands were complete. They needed only a coat of paint and a market.

The stand is about twelve inches in diameter, two and a half inches high and has a two inch pipe about eight inches long welded on the top for the tree to sit in. There is a setscrew to hold the tree in place. The stand has ample weight to keep the tree from tilting so it can be hung on a wall from year to year and is made of material strong enough to last forever. Only careful observation reveals that the stand is really made of an empty anti-tank mine.

Many on Market

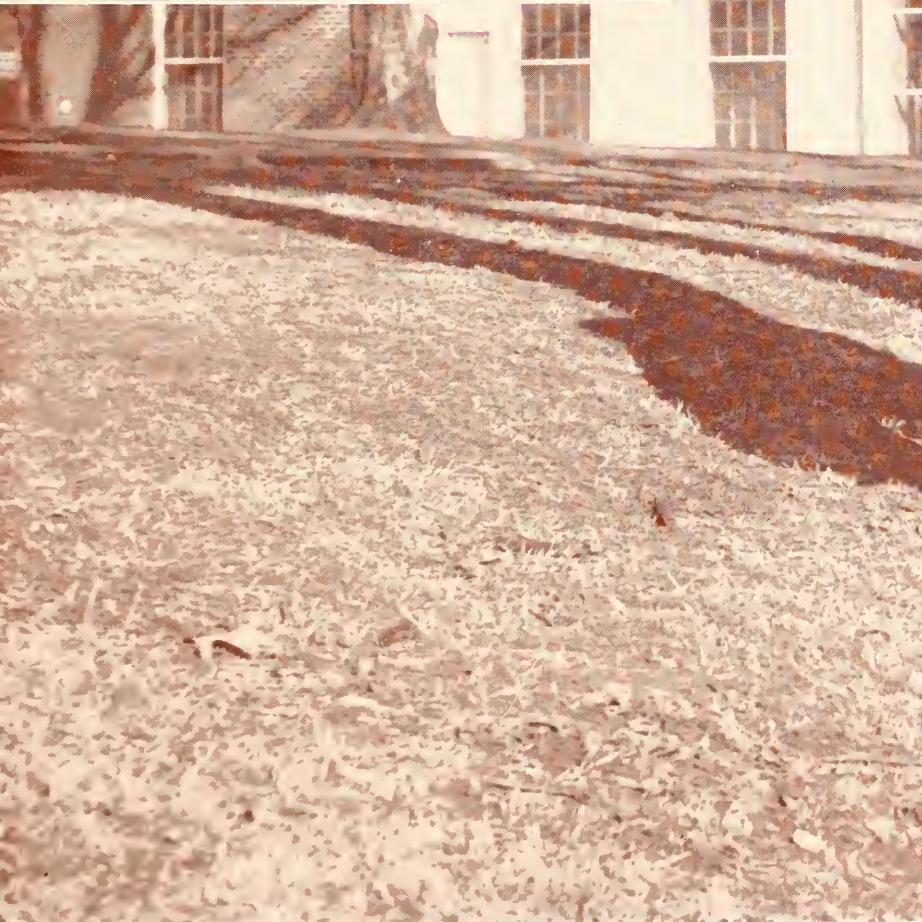

Since Mr. Trowbridge was the originator of the stand, he has the responsibility for marketing them. Of the original 75,000 about half are now in retail stores. Twenty-five thousand went to Chicago and the remainder to Shreveport and neighboring towns. At present Mr. Trowbridge is in California to show the merchant his brain-child.

The sight of an evergreen tree in one of these stands reminds the world of recent, but different Christmases. Soldiers in foreign lands saw the same type of trees and the same kind of mines, but under different conditions. Then death lurked behind every tree and destruction near every mine. Now the same items honor the birth of Christ and peace on earth, good will toward man. How much better it would have been if the nations of the world had spent as much for peace and good will as they did for war, since it has been proved that

Are the people of Germany and Japan converting their anti-tank mines into Christmas tree stands?

The Bishop's Reward....The Doom of the Catfish

Shreveport cafe society in 1839 centered at the Catfish hotel on the riverbank, and the traders, trappers and adventurers gave Bishop Polk an unpleasantly warm welcome.

(This is the second of two articles by Don Brown, Centenary college art instructor. The first, last Sunday, told how Bishop Leonidas Polk saved a snag-thirteen river boat on the journey up-river. Today's story deals with the Bishop's arrival in Shreveport and the city's first church service. Both stories will appear in a book which Brown is writing.)

By DON BROWN

In 1839 the Catfish hotel was the only hostelry in Shreveport. It was a log structure with a wide hall through the middle and several shed rooms attached to the main building. The beds were rough board bunks with sacks of corn shucks for mattresses. The guests brought their own blankets or buffalo robes. The breakfast menu was fat bacon and cornbread—the menu for lunch and dinner being the same.

The proprietor's pigs roamed the muddy halls and well they knew the sound of the dinner bell. At the first clang they charged squealing into the dining room and gathered to be busy here all day and if you try them begin to back off, the captain pressed his advantage.

"We do not intend to have a service here in the hotel," the bishop told them. "It will be in Jed Whetstone's house. You are all welcome." He left and the men at the bar began to talk, all at once. "Let's go over there and break it up. If he gets a crowd over there, we can make it a good fight and hell wish he had never landed in Shreveport."

"Hold on there," said the trader. "I got a better idea. One of you men go down there and tell Jed Whetstone to see me right now. He owes me money. I can fix this up."

Captain Puts Up Bond
In hour later, Whetstone came to the door of Whetstone's shanty and said: "Gentlemen, let us gather within for worship."
